Dear Sir or Madam:

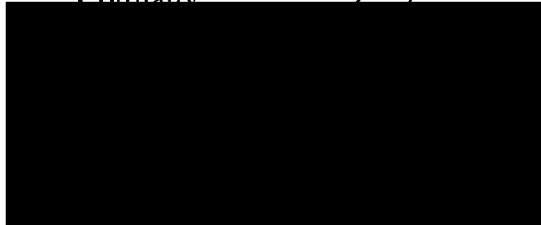

October 17, 2011
September 17, 2011, in late afternoon, I entered the Jewel Osco Supermarket to use the men's room. The supermarket is located at 5343 N. Broadway, Chicago, IL. A customer was waiting for a person to exit the men's room. We were waiting when another person dashed by us on his way to the men's room. I uttered: Sir, there are two of us waiting to use the men's room. The person, a Caucasian male, hostilely responded: I am not waiting in line! He stood near the door waiting for the person inside to exit. The person inside opened the door to exit. I walked to the door and reiterated to the hostile male there are two of us before you. He enters the men's room. I attempted to follow. He hit me with the door as he slammed it shut. I went to summon security. I asked an employee where security is located. He replied: The security guard is in the parking lot. The employee offered to get him. I returned to the liquor department, where the men's room is located. I espied the perpetrator buying alcohol. I informed him he hit me with the door. He denied it. He approached me, and communicated: Get out of here or I'll kick your ass. My reply was simply, "excuse me". He remarked: I'll kick your ass! He threw a punch that landed on the left side of my chest. I was shocked and surprised at being punched. He punched me again, on the left side of my face. It was a glancing blow. I retaliated with two punches that landed in his face. He fell to the floor. He was unconscious for approximately a minute. After regaining consciousness, he attempted to arise from the floor, and continue the fight. He threatens to kill me. The store manager told him to remain seated on the floor. He obeyed.

The police arrived shortly after the physical altercation. The perpetrator denied punching me. I informed the sergeant in charge there are many witnesses to the incident. There was group of customers at the liquor counter who viewed the entire incident. I also made him aware of the video camera in the liquor department. I repeatedly suggested he view the video recording. I stated it will exonerate me. The sergeant did not appear interested in my version of what transpired., nor two Caucasian customers who made statements with the objective of influencing my arrest. I was given the distinct impression the sergeant was looking for a reason to arrest me, and not the perpetrator. He instructed a subordinate officer, an Asian male, to arrest me. The sergeant based this decision on the circumstances the camera's recording could not currently be viewed, and because the perpetrator displayed injuries to his face. I was transported to the police station at 5400 N. Lincoln Avenue, Chicago, IL.

My arrest and detention should not have occurred if the sergeant in charge had performed a thorough investigation. The questioning of witnesses, and viewing the camera's recording would have exonerated me. My arrest was racially motivated. There was a diligent effort to have me arrested. It was based on race, not law. The other parties involved in this matter were Caucasians. I am an African-American that defended myself against a hostile, aggressive Caucasian male pummeling me with his fist. To my knowledge, self-defense is not a crime.

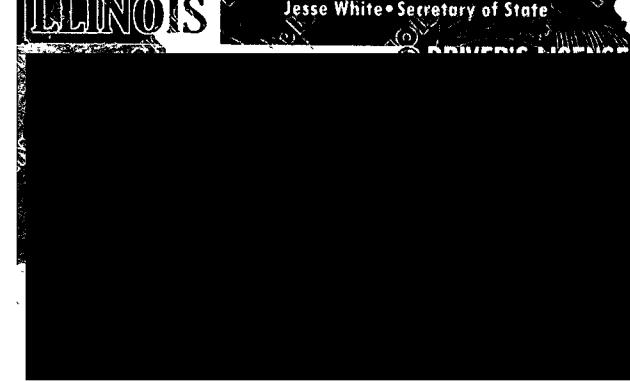

The sergeant did not act appropriately in this matter; hence, the reason for this missive of complaint.
